TAKE NOTICE,

THAT I am to be sold on such terms, that the purchaser need not advance any cash, unless he pleases, till it is earned by my services, provided no accident happens me; or, if you please, I am to be farmed out for two years, and not less. I am a bright bay, full 15¼ hands high, of noble descent, my name is TRIMMER—I was got by Hall's imported horse Eclipse, my dam, purchased by Doctor Hall, was got by the imported horse Slim; my grand dam was got by Old Figure, my great grand dam by Taskers Othello out of Selima, &c. &c. as will more fully appear by William Lyle's attested certificate who raised me. My character as a racer is well established; I won the colt's purse at Bladensburg of twenty guineas; I won a fifty guinea purse at Baltimore, a fifty guinea purse at Annapolis and a fifty guinea purse at Hagerstown. I never lost a race but the last I run at Alexandria, which was owning to my being badly shod, as I lost all my plates before I got in. I am in fine plight, sound in every respect; my offspring are in great repute, some of which are now in training for the turf—procure me good stands and entertainment and I am able to earn one thousand dollars per annum.

Any person inclining to buy or rent may know the terms by applying to John Carnan (Lovehall) Cœcil county and state of Maryland, eight miles south of Elkton.

For the GAZETTE of the UNITED STATES.

IT is with much regret that I appear in a controversy before the public, but the following publication which has been printed and industriously circulated not only in this city, but sent into the county which I have the honor to represent, will, I hope, be deemed a sufficient excuse for troubling them; it is so fraught with malice and falsehood, that I should be wanting in duty to myself, my constituents and the public in general, were it suffered to pass unnoticed.

I shall not follow the example of the author, by resorting to scurrility or departing from truth—a good cause stands not in need of such aids—My intention is merely to give a simple statement of facts, to make a few remarks on his publication, and to submit to the unbiassed and impartial examination of the public the subjoined certificates.

Mr. Bailey says that his "address would have been delayed some time longer, for reasons unnecessary to relate, had not the rising of Congress, and the consequent departure of General Morgan, led him to suppose that he might be charged with want of candor in taking the advantage of his absence." What reasons he could have had for further delay, it is impossible to imagine; the certificate of Joseph Scott is dated so long ago as the 8th of December, and that of Mr. Voight the 18th of the same month. It is, however, as unfortunate for Mr. Bailey, as it is fortunate for me, that he had not delayed a day or two longer. On Thursday last General Morgan entered his name in the stage-book at Mr. Dunwoody's, for a seat for Saturday, 2d March instant; and this circumstance Mr. Bailey must have known, for the book is open to inspection at all times, and he was at Mr. Dunwoody's at two different times after General Morgan's name was entered, as Mr. Oliver, the clerk, will testify—Yet Mr. Bailey never circulated his letter until ten o'clock on Saturday morning, when he supposed General Morgan had left the city—but in consequence of General Morgan being taken ill on Friday, and unable to go on his journey on Saturday, I have been enabled to obtain his certificate. And yet Mr. Bailey was induced to hurry his address to the public, because "the rising of Congress and the consequent departure of General Morgan, led him to suppose that he might be charged with want of candor in taking the advantage of his absence"!—Matchless candor!

Mr. Bailey charges me with "sapping and mining with secrecy and address, with "maliciously storing up in my memory a mutilated part of a desultory conversation, for the purpose of secretly putting it into operation, at a critical time, to injure him," with "concealing, for eleven months, a crime so flagrant as treason," and with "wantonly and falsely asserting" that I heard him say to General Morgan that he "wished 20,000 Frenchmen would invade the United States of America." The following certificates (and many others could be obtained if necessary) fully prove the falsity of the charge—So far from aiding with secrecy, with regard to Mr. Bailey, that I declared to Mr. Wescot, at the time above mentioned, in the hearing of Mr. Bailey, that no man who entertained such sentiments as he (Mr. Bailey) did, was entitled to any support from the government, as I considered him as an enemy to it, and that I was determined to use my influence to prevent his being re-elected the printer of the Journal of the House of Representatives. I have since openly and repeatedly mentioned the subject, and early in the present session, when Mr. Bailey asked me for my vote in the presence of several members of the legislature, I told him I would not vote for him, and at his request gave him my reasons—Had I been silent on this occasion, I might justly have been considered as "an accomplice" in his guilt—That I did refrain from bestowing on him that chastisement which his conduct so richly merited, has often since excited my astonishment; but my situation as a member of the legislature, and a respect for his age, were, probably, the motives which influenced me at the time. This, however, ought not to be a subject of complaint with him. That General Morgan refrained from "instantaneous resentment," Mr. Bailey is, I apprehend, indebted to a gentleman in this city, who stepped in and took an interesting part in the controversy between General Morgan and him (Mr. Bailey) at a very critical moment.

I never did assert that Mr. Bailey had said he "wished 20,000 Frenchmen would invade the United States of America."—My assertion was, and I now repeat that he did say, after bestowing much abuse upon General Washington and the General Government, "that he would not be surprised if the French should land 20,000 men in America, and that he thought they would be very justifiable in doing so."

From this statement of facts, which is fully substantiated by the following certificates, I submit to the public to determine whether in my opposition to Mr. Bailey, as printer of the Journal, (for my resentment has not carried me further), I have acted in a secret, false or malicious manner—or whether Mr. Bailey, stung with disappointment, and seeking for revenge, has not acted falsely, maliciously, and in every respect, so far as relates to this controversy or the subject of it, degrading to the character of a gentleman and to the name of an American.

JACOB STRICKLER.

Philadelphia, March 1, 1799.

SIR,

IT gives me no inconsiderable degree of pain to address you on the present occasion; but painful as it is, the duty I owe to myself and family impels me to it, and I trust will plead my apology for troubling you with the perusal of the following statement. This address would have been delayed some time longer for reasons unnecessary to relate, had not the rising of Congress, and the consequent departure of General Morgan led me to suppose that I might be charged with want of candor in taking the advantage of his absence.

At the commencement of the present session of the House of Representatives of this State, I requested the suffrage of several of the members as the printer of their journal,—and as a plea, told some of them that my competitor had the printing of the current laws, besides a new edition of all the laws; that he had drawn from the State-Treasury, within the last six or seven years, between 20 and 30,000 dollars, which I believe he has honestly earned, and that I only wanted a share in the public work, so long as I should continue to serve them well.—The unbiassed and unengaged generally acknowledged the force of my plea, and the propriety of dividing the public employment. From what passed between a number of the gentlemen and myself, I formed sanguine expectations of success; but the evening before the election came on, the honorable Jacob Strickler, esquire, member of the house of Representatives for the county of Lancaster, convinced me that my expectations were altogether vain— I found he had been sapping and mining with such secrecy and address, that it was impossible for me to counteract its operation—I attended the morning of the election, and found some who had been my steady friends on former occasions voting against me. Indeed, I wondered that more did not follow their example; and can account for it no other way than by supposing, that the honorable Jacob Strickler, esq. had communicated his calumny to no more than would ensure a certain majority against me.

What does the man deserve, who can maliciously store up in his memory a mutilated part of a desultory conversation in a convivial company, until he can put it secretly into operation at a critical time, to the injury of his neighbor?—But what does the man deserve, who can wantonly and falsely assert as the honorable Jacob Strickler, esquire, hath done, that he heard me say to General Morgan, member of Congress, that "I wished 200,000 Frenchmen would invade the United States of America."

Let me ask, sir, is it possible for any one who knows General Morgan, to believe that he, a legislator in the grand council of the nation, should hear the treasonable expression aforesaid, and refrain from instantaneous resentment, and prosecution of the incendiary?

It is difficult and often impossible to prove a negative; however the subjoined certificate of the Chief Coiner of the Mint of the United States, and that of Mr. Scott, enable me to perform the task. I knew, that however General Morgan and myself might differ in politics, I had nothing to fear from his known candor and integrity as a gentleman, and when I waited on him, I found I had formed a correct opinion of his character; he explicitly denied any knowledge of the wish ascribed to me. And the honorable Jacob Strickler, esquire, or any of his friends, may call on the General at their leisure, they will find that he will not stoop to help any man out with a piece of dirty work.

I never was in public conversation with General Morgan, before or since the evening of the third of January 1798, consequently that must be the time the honorable Jacob Strickler, esquire, (as he has asserted) heard me utter treason and sedition. And what do you think of a legislator of the State of Pennsylvania, concealing for eleven months a crime so flagrant as treason? Were what he says a fact, would not his silence constitute him an accomplice? But unfortunately for the honorable gentleman it is only one of the honorable Jacob Strickler's facts, viz. A fact that never existed! it has however effected the purpose for which it was intended, and that was, the unmanly grovelling purpose of temporarily affecting the character, in order to ruin the interest and character of a man who dares to have an opinion of his own.

The gentlemen in the House of Representatives who know me, will not believe what the honorable Jacob Strickler, esquire, has said of me;—And of those who do not know me let me ask, what could infatuate or induce a man, circumstanced as I am, to wish the invasion of his country?—A man whose life, liberty and property, are guaranteed to him by the constitution and laws of that country?—A man making successful endeavors for the support of himself, a wife and nine children?—A man as independent of the government, as the government is of him? A man who has his little all embarked in this country—And a man who drew his first, and expects to draw his last breath in it?—Do you believe sir, that there is any man, in any country on earth, under similar circumstances, that could wish its invasion by a foreign enemy?—No!—No sir, the worst enemy I have, not even the honorable Jacob Strickler, esquire, excepted, can bring himself to believe it, whatever he may say to the contrary.

I know it is my duty to forgive my enemies; and I do not only forgive, but pity the honorable Jacob Strickler, esquire, for pursuing a hateful end by despicable means, desiring not so much his own advantage as my injury.

I am, Sir,
your respectful humble servant,
FRANCIS BAILEY.

I, THE undersigned, was called to attend a meeting of the Gap Coppermine company, (of which I was a member) at Mr. Dunwoody's tavern, in Market street, the 3d day of January 1798. Mr. Francis Bailey being likewise a member of said company. Before a sufficient number of members assembled, we took seats with several gentlemen then in said tavern; among whom was General Morgan from Virginia. A discourse took place on the politics of the day, the British treaty was likewise the topic of conversation between General Morgan and Mr. Francis Bailey; the general defended said treaty, and Mr. Bailey opposed it; Mr. Bailey was in some measure in favor of French politics, and the General in opposition—some pretty hard rubs were given on both sides. A gentleman who had his seat opposite to Mr. Bailey, took part in the conversation in opposition to Mr. Bailey; and said to Mr. Bailey, "You are so much of a Frenchman, that you would not turn out against them, if they were to invade this country," to which Mr. Bailey replied, I am too old to turn out; but I should not like to fight John Adams' battles. The gentleman said, "it seemed to him as if Mr. Bailey rather had a wish that the French might invade this country," to which Mr. Bailey replied, or rather exclaimed; God forbid! that I should wish my country invaded by any nation; but if twenty thousand sans culottes were to land here, he believed the old tories and British treaty-men would make but a poor defence against them. General Morgan asked Mr. Bailey, "what is your name?" he replied, my name is Francis Bailey, and added the place where he lived and what he followed; the general said, you are a furious Frenchman; Mr. Bailey answered I am no Frenchman, but an American. I heard Mr. Bailey ask the general to take a glass of wine with him, to which the general consented—by this time a sufficient number of members had gathered, and we went and joined them, and pursued our own business. This is as near in words as I can recollect. HENRY VOIGT.

December 18th, 1798.

AT the request of Mr. Bailey, I called, in company with him, on general Morgan, one of the delegates in congress from Virginia, to know if the general recollected being in company with Mr. Bailey at Dunwoody's tavern on the third day of January 1798; and if he remembered whether or not Mr. Bailey, in conversation with him expressed a wish that 20,000 Frenchmen would land in the United States; to which general Morgan answered without hesitation, "No sir, I recollect nothing of such an expression." JOSEPH SCOTT.

December 8th, 1798.

WE do certify that on the evening of the 3d of January, '98, being in company with Jacob Strickler, Esq. at Mr. Dunwoody's tavern in Market street, after some time Mr. Francis Bailey, who was sitting in the same room in company with a Mr. Voight, commenced a conversation with Gen. Morgan on the subject of the British Treaty—Mr. Bailey asserted that it was one of the most impolitic acts of the General Government, that no advantage could result to the United States from the adoption of that treaty, but, on the contrary, the greatest disadvantage must be the consequence of it, and gave, as a reason for the adoption of that Treaty, that the President of the United States had been led by the old tories and a British faction, which had gained great influence in this country—on being asked what disadvantages could result from the treaty? he answered, that it had been the cause of the depredations on our commerce by the French nation, "and that he would not be in the least surprized if they (the French) should land an army in this country, that he thought they would be justifiable in so doing, that the Government of the United States had acted, with respect to France in a disgraceful manner, if the French did invade the country, he would not oppose them, because he thought the Government of the United States had done all in its power to force the French nation into a war, and if they (the French) did land he would not fight the battles of John Adams, he would leave that to be done by those persons who approve of the measures of the government.

DANIEL MORGAN.
JOHN VAN REED.
H. WESCOTT.

Philadelphia, March 2d. 1799.

WE do certify that early in the present session of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, Mr. Francis Bailey asked Mr. Jacob Strickler in our presence for his vote as Printer of the Journals of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania; Mr. Strickler answered that he could not vote for him: upon which Mr. Bailey demanded his reason; Mr. Strickler replied he would rather tell him in private, but Mr. Bailey insisted upon knowing his reason at that time, Mr. Strickler informed him it was in consequence of certain expressions he had made use of in presence of General Morgan, to wit. "that he would not be surprized if the French should land 20,000 men in America, and that he thought they would be very justifiable in doing so." THOMAS CAMPBELL,
JACOB RAUM,

Members of the House of Representatives.

March 2, 1799.

I do certify that on the evening of the 3d of January 1798, Jacob Strickler, Esq. informed me in the presence and hearing of Mr. Francis Bailey, and immediately after Mr. Bailey's conversation with general Morgan, that he thought any person of Mr. Bailey's political opinions ought not to receive any advantages from the general government or any individual state, and that he would oppose Mr. Bailey's re-election as printer of the journals of the legislature of Pennsylvania. And I do further certify that on the said evening in reply to the intemperate assertions of Mr. Bailey, general Morgan remarked that he had often heard of men possessing such opinions in this country, but until that evening had never believed there was a single individual in the United States so great an enemy to his country as Mr. Bailey appeared to be from his own assertions.

H. WESCOTT.

March 3d, 1799.

WE do certify, that being in conversation with Jacob Strickler, Esq. on the subject of chooling a Printer of the Journals of the house of Representatives, we asked him his objections to Francis Bailey, he said that he had heard him say that he would not be surprized if the French would land an army in the United States, and also, that he thought they would be justifiable in so doing.

BY YESTERDAY'S MAIL.

From the Mercantile Daily Advertiser.

CHALESTON, (S. C.) Feb. 22d

Americans! unite, rally round your government—look on Frenchmen with the eye of ſuſpicion, and prepare to meet them as enemies, with a ſword: And.

Beware of French Emiſſaries!

This was the caution of the patriotic Major General Pinckney, to Americans, while he was their envoy to, and was in France.

Proofs of the neceſſity of this caution have ſucceeded each other almoſt every day for the two or three laſt years; but they are now ſo plain and poſitive, that they muſt convict the minds of all, but ſuch as deſerve tranſportation to France, or the gallaws.

READ THIS.

His Excellency, Governor Rutledge, and the collector of this port, about five weeks ago received a letter from Col. Pickering, Secretary of State of the United States, to the following effect.

That government had obtained intelligence that four perſons were to embark from Hamburgh for this port, as agents of the French directory, with diſpatches of a hoſtile nature to the peace and welfare of the United States.

The Secretary of State then gave the names of the perſons and their deſcription; alſo of the veſſel, and the paſſports which it was expected they would have; and informed further, that the diſpatches and papers of conſequence, would be ſecreted in two falſe bottomed tubs, and requeſted that the neceſſary ſteps ſhould be taken to ſecure the ſuſpected perſons and their papers, as ſoon as they arrived here.

Capt. Thompſon, the boarding officer of the port, was accordingly inſtructed to notice particularly, and report without delay, all paſſengers from Europe.

Yeſterday he had the happineſs and good fortune to board the brig Minerva, Capt. Cramp, in 119 days from Hamburgh, and reported her arrival, and that there were four or five paſſengers on board. This brig was the expected veſſel, and the Collector, Major Simons, attended by Mr. William Crafts agent of the U. States for the naval and war departments, went immediately on board with proper aſſiſtance to examine and ſecure the ſuſpected perſons and their papers.

As ſoon as they got on board, they enquired for perſons by names they had received, and were anſwered affirmatively; theſe were directly ſearched and given into cuſtody, and the ſearch continued for the tubs, which were fortunately diſcovered in the cabin; the tubs were broken open, and the papers taken out; the horrors of guilt were depicted ſtrongly on the countenances of the guilty wretches, and their bodies ſhook with fear and trembling—There was a ſign to have thrown them overboard from the cabin window, but it was prevented by the expedition of the gentlemen who undertook the buſineſs.—Three of the fellows are mulattoes, and one of them a white perſon; a woman was alſo taken up, who was evidently concerned in the conſpiracy, and endeavored to take care of the tubs under her arm.

The four men and their female accomplice, are now confined at Fort Pinckney, their trunks and baggage are taken to the cuſtom houſe, and the important Tales of the Tubs are under the examination of Major general Pinckney, to whom they were immediately delivered. The developement will come out in ſeaſon.

Capt. Howland, arrived on Wedneſday from Cadiz, informs that Lord St. Vincent's fleet ſailed from before Cadiz about the 16th December: it was ſuppoſed in Cadiz that it had gone into the Mediteranean.

On the 18th of December, one Spaniſh ſhip of the line, four Spaniſh and one French frigate ſailed for South America.

Before Capt. Howland ſailed, authentic accounts had been received at Cadiz, of the capture of the iſland of Minorca by Admiral Nelſon. It was reported that the inhabitants would not permit any reſiſtance to be made to the landing of the Britiſh forces. Several Spaniſh gun boats, captured at Minorca, had arrived at Gibralter.

We tender our acknowledgments to an obliging Correſpondent for the following intereſting document which corroborates the account publiſhed in this paper on Saturday laſt.

COMMUNICATIONS.

If ever there was a time, which called for unanimity amongſt the friends of government, it is the preſent. Animated by one ſentiment, inſpirited by one principle, they ſhould preſs forward, undeviatingly to one object, the preſervation of their country. It is time, all ſecondary diviſions ſhould be done away, and that men, thinking on an expanded ſcale, ſhould ſacrifice every little peculiarity to the broader and more generally received opinions of their friends. In this way, alone, ſhall we be ever able to counteract the unanimity, vigour and conſtancy of the faction of France.

The Interval during which the new negociations with France, are to be carried on, ſhould be a buſy one with us, for many important reaſons. We may already judge that nothing will be left undone by the Democrats to proſit of it: the opening it gives them, will be ſeized on with avidity, and their ſchemes proſecuted with new ardor. We muſt alſo be prepared to counteract a new diſcloſure of diplomatic ſkill, a more artful trap than any we have yet eſcaped. Should a peace be concluded, and an unreſtrained intercourſe between the two countries again take place (which muſt of courſe be the caſe) our ſituation would be rendered hazardous indeed. To provide, in time, for emergencies likely to ariſe, will mark our wiſdom, and well reward the efforts it coſts.

The Democrats, in their laſt ſelection of a candidate, muſt be allowed the meed of ingenuity, in erecting for their rallying poſt, a man, who concenters in his ſingle perſon, every individual and collective vice of the whole party. Such a man merits all their confidence and ſupport; he is, indeed, the very "Extract of Jacobiniſm."

"The Deſcent of Talleyrand into Hell" is poſtponed, only in order to preſent the remainder of it, at one view.

The great Democrat of the South is ſaid to be employed at intervals on a new work, to be entitled, the Philoſophy of Democracy. It is to be hoped he will be more fortunate in philoſophizing on this ground, than his profound predeceſſors, Paine, Godwin, &c.

Mr. Dallas runs a ſplendid new coach. Thus, it ſeems, he has preached up Liberty and Equality to ſome purpoſe.

For the GAZETTE of the UNITED STATES.

THE enemies of government make a great outcry againſt the alien law becauſe they conſider it as inhuman; and the democrats in the houſe of repreſentatives oppoſed the retaliation law upon the ſame ground. I know not whether to attribute the clamors of theſe fellows to their ſtupidity or their villainy; but certainly their arguments evince one or the other in a remarkable degree.

Under the impreſſion that it may poſſibly proceed from their not knowing any better, I beg leave to ſuggeſt to their conſideration a poſition, the truth of which to men of common underſtanding is ſelf evident, viz. that no meaſure can be inhuman which ſacrifices a few of our enemies to our own preſervation, any more than the act of ſhooting a robber can be called inhuman, when we do it to preſerve the lives of ten innocent travellers. Moreover, let theſe good people ſtretch their minds, if poſſible, to the comprehenſion of this ſimple truth, that we ſhould be truly guilty of inhumanity, were we not to retaliate.

The aſſaſſinating arrete of the French directory would then meet with no obſtacle, and would operate as extenſively as thoſe monſters intended it ſhould: and our fooliſh forbearance would render us more guilty than even the French government, by making us acceſſary to the murder of our own citizens.

When France is made acquainted with the determination of this country to ſacrifice man for man, who is ſo deſpicably dull as not to ſee that our firmneſs will eventually ſave the lives of both? The French government will be deterred from executing their purpoſes; not indeed with any view of ſaving their citizens, or our from being butchered, but from an apprehenſion of the reproach and ruin which ſuch belliſh miſchief would bring upon them in their own country.

The five directors of France have, I believe, as little compaſſion in their diſpoſitions as the wild beaſts of the foreſt. I will not therefore inſult common ſenſe by predicting any lenity on their ſide as a conſequence of their averſion to ſlaughter. I only hope it from their ambition. Such ferocity may poſſibly not be very agreeable to their conſtituents, and the ambition of the directory to rule and tyrannize, to which they have ſacrificed ſuch multitudes of their fellow-creatures, may ſometimes require them to relax their cruelty.

SMALL TALK.

COMMUNICATION.

Neceſſary qualifications for a Chief Magiſtrate.

He ſhould be a man of known ſobriety; of ſtrict public and domeſtic virtue; a profeſſor of religion; of political ſagacity and integrity; and beſide an extenſive legal knowledge, he ſhould underſtand the nobler ſcience of government and the art of war.

For he who will habitually become muddled every day after, and frequently before dinner, would be a dangerous depoſitory of ſupreme authority. Might we not juſtly apprehend, that in the ſeleſs hour of intoxication or inebrious gaiety, a fatal blow would be given to the honor and the intereſts of the commonwealth?

In his own houſe at leaſt he ought to wear the breeches; for that man who cannot rule over his family, is unqualified to govern a ſtate; beſide, if the grey mare were to be the better horſe, we ſhould in fact live under a petticoat tyranny.

If he is the correſpondent and friend of notorious traitors, he can poſſeſs neither religious nor civil honeſty.

His political principles ſhould be in harmony with thoſe of the government over him: for in the complex federiſm of our ſyſtem, one wheel becoming ruſty, or moving on a wrong axis will, if not deſtroy, interrupt the motion of the whole works.

He does not underſtand government, if he perverts the laws to party purpoſes—Such a man therefore, is unworthy the honors, dignities, and emoluments of a chief magiſtrate.

Insurance Company of North America.

For INSURANCE against FIRE, on Dwelling-Houses, Ware-Houses, and other Buildings (and on Goods contained in such Buildings) distant from Philadelphia, in the United States.

I. Common Insurances, on hazards of the first class, will be undertaken at a premium of about half per cent. per annum. For extra hazardous risques a larger premium will be required, which will vary according to circumstances, seldom exceeding one per cent. per annum; but in some instances, where the property insured is not only in itself extra hazardous, but rendered still more so by the vicinity of extra hazardous buildings and occupations, the premium demanded will be raised according to circumstances.

Houses and Ware-Houses, the walls and partitions of which are wholly of stone or brick, well constructed, so as to be guarded as well as may be against fires from within, and free from extra hazardous buildings and occupations in their neighborhood, will be deemed hazardous of the first class, and may be insured to their full value.

Also Goods and Merchandize, not of an extra hazardous kind, in casks, bales, or packages, deposited in such buildings, to an amount not exceeding 4000 dollars; but if more than this sum is required to be insured in one tenement, an additional premium will be required, in proportion to circumstances.

II. Insurances will also be made on buildings and goods extra hazardous, at premiums proportioned to the risque. But it is not easy to arrange these under particular heads or classes, so as to describe each with the necessary accuracy. Each case must therefore be decided upon according to the circumstances attending it; and these circumstances will, in general, appear from the description accompanying the application.

Buildings partly constructed of brick or stone, are preferable to those wholly wooden. And in both cases, the stile of building, how they are occupied, how they are situated, the neighboring buildings, and how occupied, are considerations to be taken into view. And with respect to goods, their tendency, whether from their nature, or from the manner in which they are exposed, either to commence or to increase an accidental fire, and their liability in such state to receive damage by wet, or by sudden and hasty removal, or to be stolen in time of confusion and hurry, are all circumstances of weight; and the premiums must be proportioned accordingly.

III. The following conditions are to be understood by the parties.

1st. The Insurance is not binding till the stipulated premium be paid; but it shall be deemed effectual from the time of such payment and acceptance thereof, whether the policy be immediately signed or not.

2d. Insurances may be renewed at the expiration of the term of the policy, without further expenses than the payment of the premium of the renewed term, the circumstances continuing the same as they were understood by the Insurers at the time the former insurance was made; but the payment of the premium is essential to such renewal; and if the party insured suffers any time to elapse after the expiration of the former insurance, before he pays a premium for the renewal, he is not insured during such time; nor can the insurance be renewed on the former policy but by computing the commencement of the renewal from the expiration of the former insurance. The subject of insurance may nevertheless be open to treaty for a new insurance.

3d. If any other insurance be made on the same property; it must be made known at the time of application, otherwise the policy made on such application will be void.

4th Goods held in trust, or on consignment, may be insured as such in a separate policy; but they are not to be considered as insured otherwise.

5th. This company will not be liable or accountable for any loss or damage occasioned by any foreign invasion, or by any military or usurped force or by reason of any civil commotion; or occasioned by gunpowder, aquafortis or other thing of the like kind kept in the building, or amongst the property insured.

6th. Bills of Exchange, Bonds and other Securities, Title Deeds, Money, Bank and other promissory Notes, are not included in any insurance; nor are paintings, medals, jewels, gems, antique curiosities, or mirrors exceeding the value of twenty-five dollars each, to be considered as insured unless particularly mentioned and by special agreement.

7th. No insurance will be made for a shorter term than one year, nor for a longer term than seven years. Persons choosing to insure for seven years shall be allowed one year's premium by way of discount: One third of a years premium shall be abated in like manner on an insurance for three years.

8th. Losses sustained by fire on property insured, shall be paid in thirty days after due proof and liquidation thereof, without deduction.

A description of the property to be insured will be expected with each application, to be made by a master carpenter and signed by him, as well as by the owner of the building or applicant for insurance, and attested before a Notary or principal Magistrate, who will certify his knowledge of the parties and their credibility.

With respect to Houses and other Buildings.

1st. The site and position; describing the street or road on or near which the building stands; its contiguity to water, and other circumstances relative to the extinguishment of fire in case of accident; and particularly whether any and what fire companies are established, and engines provided, in the place or neighbourhood.

2d. The materials of which it is built, whether of brick, stone or wood, and what part of each, as well as to the outside walls as inside or partition walls, and their respective height and thickness; the style of the roof and of what materials; how secured by battlements or party walls; what kind of access to the top of the house and to the chimnies; whether any and what electric rods; the number and kind of fire places; and the kind of deposit for ashes.

3d. The dimensions of the building and how divided, and the style in which it is finished so as to enable indifferent persons to judge in what manner it is to be repaired or rebuilt in case of injury; the age and condition of the building, and how occupied, whether merely as a dwelling house, or for any other, and for what purpose; also an estimate of the value of the house or building independent of the ground.

4th. The situation with respect to other buildings or back buildings, whether adjoining or not, comprehending at least one hundred feet each way: what kind of buildings are within that distance, how built, of what materials, and how occupied or improved, whether as dwellings for private families or otherwise: whether any and what trade or manufactory is carried on, and particularly whether there be any extra hazardous articles used, or usually deposited in the house, or within the distance aforesaid, and of what kind.

Respecting goods in Houses, Warehouses, &c.

1. A general description of the building in which they are kept will be expected, similar in all respects, as to the danger from fire, with that required for Insurance on the buildings themselves.

2. A description of the kinds and nature of the goods, whether in casks or other packages, or opened; and whether displayed in whole pieces or in the usual form for retailing. And if the goods vary materially in kind, a general estimate of the value of each kind proposed to be insured; but in the last particular minuteness of description is not expected.

3. Articles of the following kinds are deemed extra-hazardous, though in various degrees, in whatever building they may be placed, viz. pitch, tar, turpentine, rosin, wax, tallow, oil, inflammable spirits, sulphur, hemp, flax, cotton, dry goods of an inflammable kind, opened.—Glass, china ware or procelain, especially unpacked; Looking glasses, jewelery; and all other articles more than commonly inflammable, or more than commonly liable to injury by sudden removal or by moistures, or particularly obnoxious to theft on an alarm of fire.

Letters post paid, directed to the Secretary of the Board of Directors, will be duly attended to. An order for Insurance accompanied by the means of paying the premium, will be immediately executed on the premium being paid. If the application contain an enquiry only, it will be answered.

By order of the Board,
Ebenezer Hazard, sec'ry.

TO THE
Promoters of Literature.

THE managers of the Beula Seminary, impelled by motives of pure morality, having resolved to dispose of the following property by way of LOTTERY, in order to assist them in erecting a convenient building for the accommodation of one hundred students, and the necessary professors in the different departments of science—do offer for sale three hundred and fifty lots in BEULA, each fifty-eight feet by one hundred and twenty-five, at twenty dollars per ticket, each ticket entitled to a lot to be determined by ballot; ten dollars to be paid on receipt of the ticket, and the remaining ten on the delivery of the deed. The ballot to take place before impartial men, as soon as the whole number of tickets are sold.

The managers, anticipating the difficulty of obtaining cash for the whole, have resolved to receive an equivalent, for some of the lots in select books; philosophical apparatus, or in produce and materials for building, delivered on the spot.

It may be observed, that the value of prizes in this lottery will be more than double the amount of all the tickets; for 350 lots, would at their average estimation, produce at least 15,750 dollars; whilst, according to the present proposals, the sum obtained for them will be only 7,000 dollars.

Tickets may be had during this winter, of Morgan & Rhees, president of the board of managers, no. 177, south Second-street, Philadelphia; who will receive proposals and plans for the erection of the building. It is intended to be of brick or stone; its situation on the summit of a gradual rising eminence, commanding an extensive prospect of the surrounding country; an observatory to be on its top.

Land and out lots in the vicinity of the Town may be had on moderate terms by applying as above. Mechanics and laborers, of good morals will meet with encouragement.
